WHO ARE THE RANGERS?

The crowd asks itself the question at the football game—and shouts back the answer:
We are the Rangers!
The crowd shouts back the answer:
We are the Rangers!

But who realizes what they are saying?
We are the Rangers.
Who understands what this means?
We-are-the-Rangers.
We-are-Jesuit-High-School. Every one of us.
All five hundred of us.
Five hundred ways of thumbing a ride.
Five hundred ways of stomping feet in a football grandstand.
Five hundred ways of walking to the Communion rail on First Friday.
Five hundred ways of saying:
O young Lochinvar . . .
or Gimme a big white . . .
or Bless me, Father, for I have sinned . . .
or We are the Rangers!
These all five hundred ways of saying or doing anything are the Rangers—are Jesuit High School.

WHO ARE THE RANGERS?

The crowd asks itself the question at the football game—and shouts back the answer:
We are the Rangers!

But who realizes what they mean?
Who understands what they are saying?
We-are-the-Rangers.
Every one of us.
Minus one and the Rangers would not be the same.
We are all important, they are shouting.
Every one of us.
We-are-the-Rangers.
From the biggest senior . . . to the smallest freshman.
From the Allens, Barrys, Broughs . . . to the Wooliscrofts, Wilmarths, Zilmans.
The crowd is shouting:
We are the Rangers.
We are all important.

WHO ARE THE RANGERS?

The crowd asks itself the question at the football game—and shouts back the answer:
We are the Rangers!

But who understands what they mean?
Who realizes what they are saying?
They do.
They all do.
All of them.
All five hundred of them realize . . . understand.
This is a record of how well they realize . . . understand.
This is the book of their year 1959.

President of Jesuit High School
"To the Class of '59
. . . public thanks."

Thomas J. Shields S.J.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

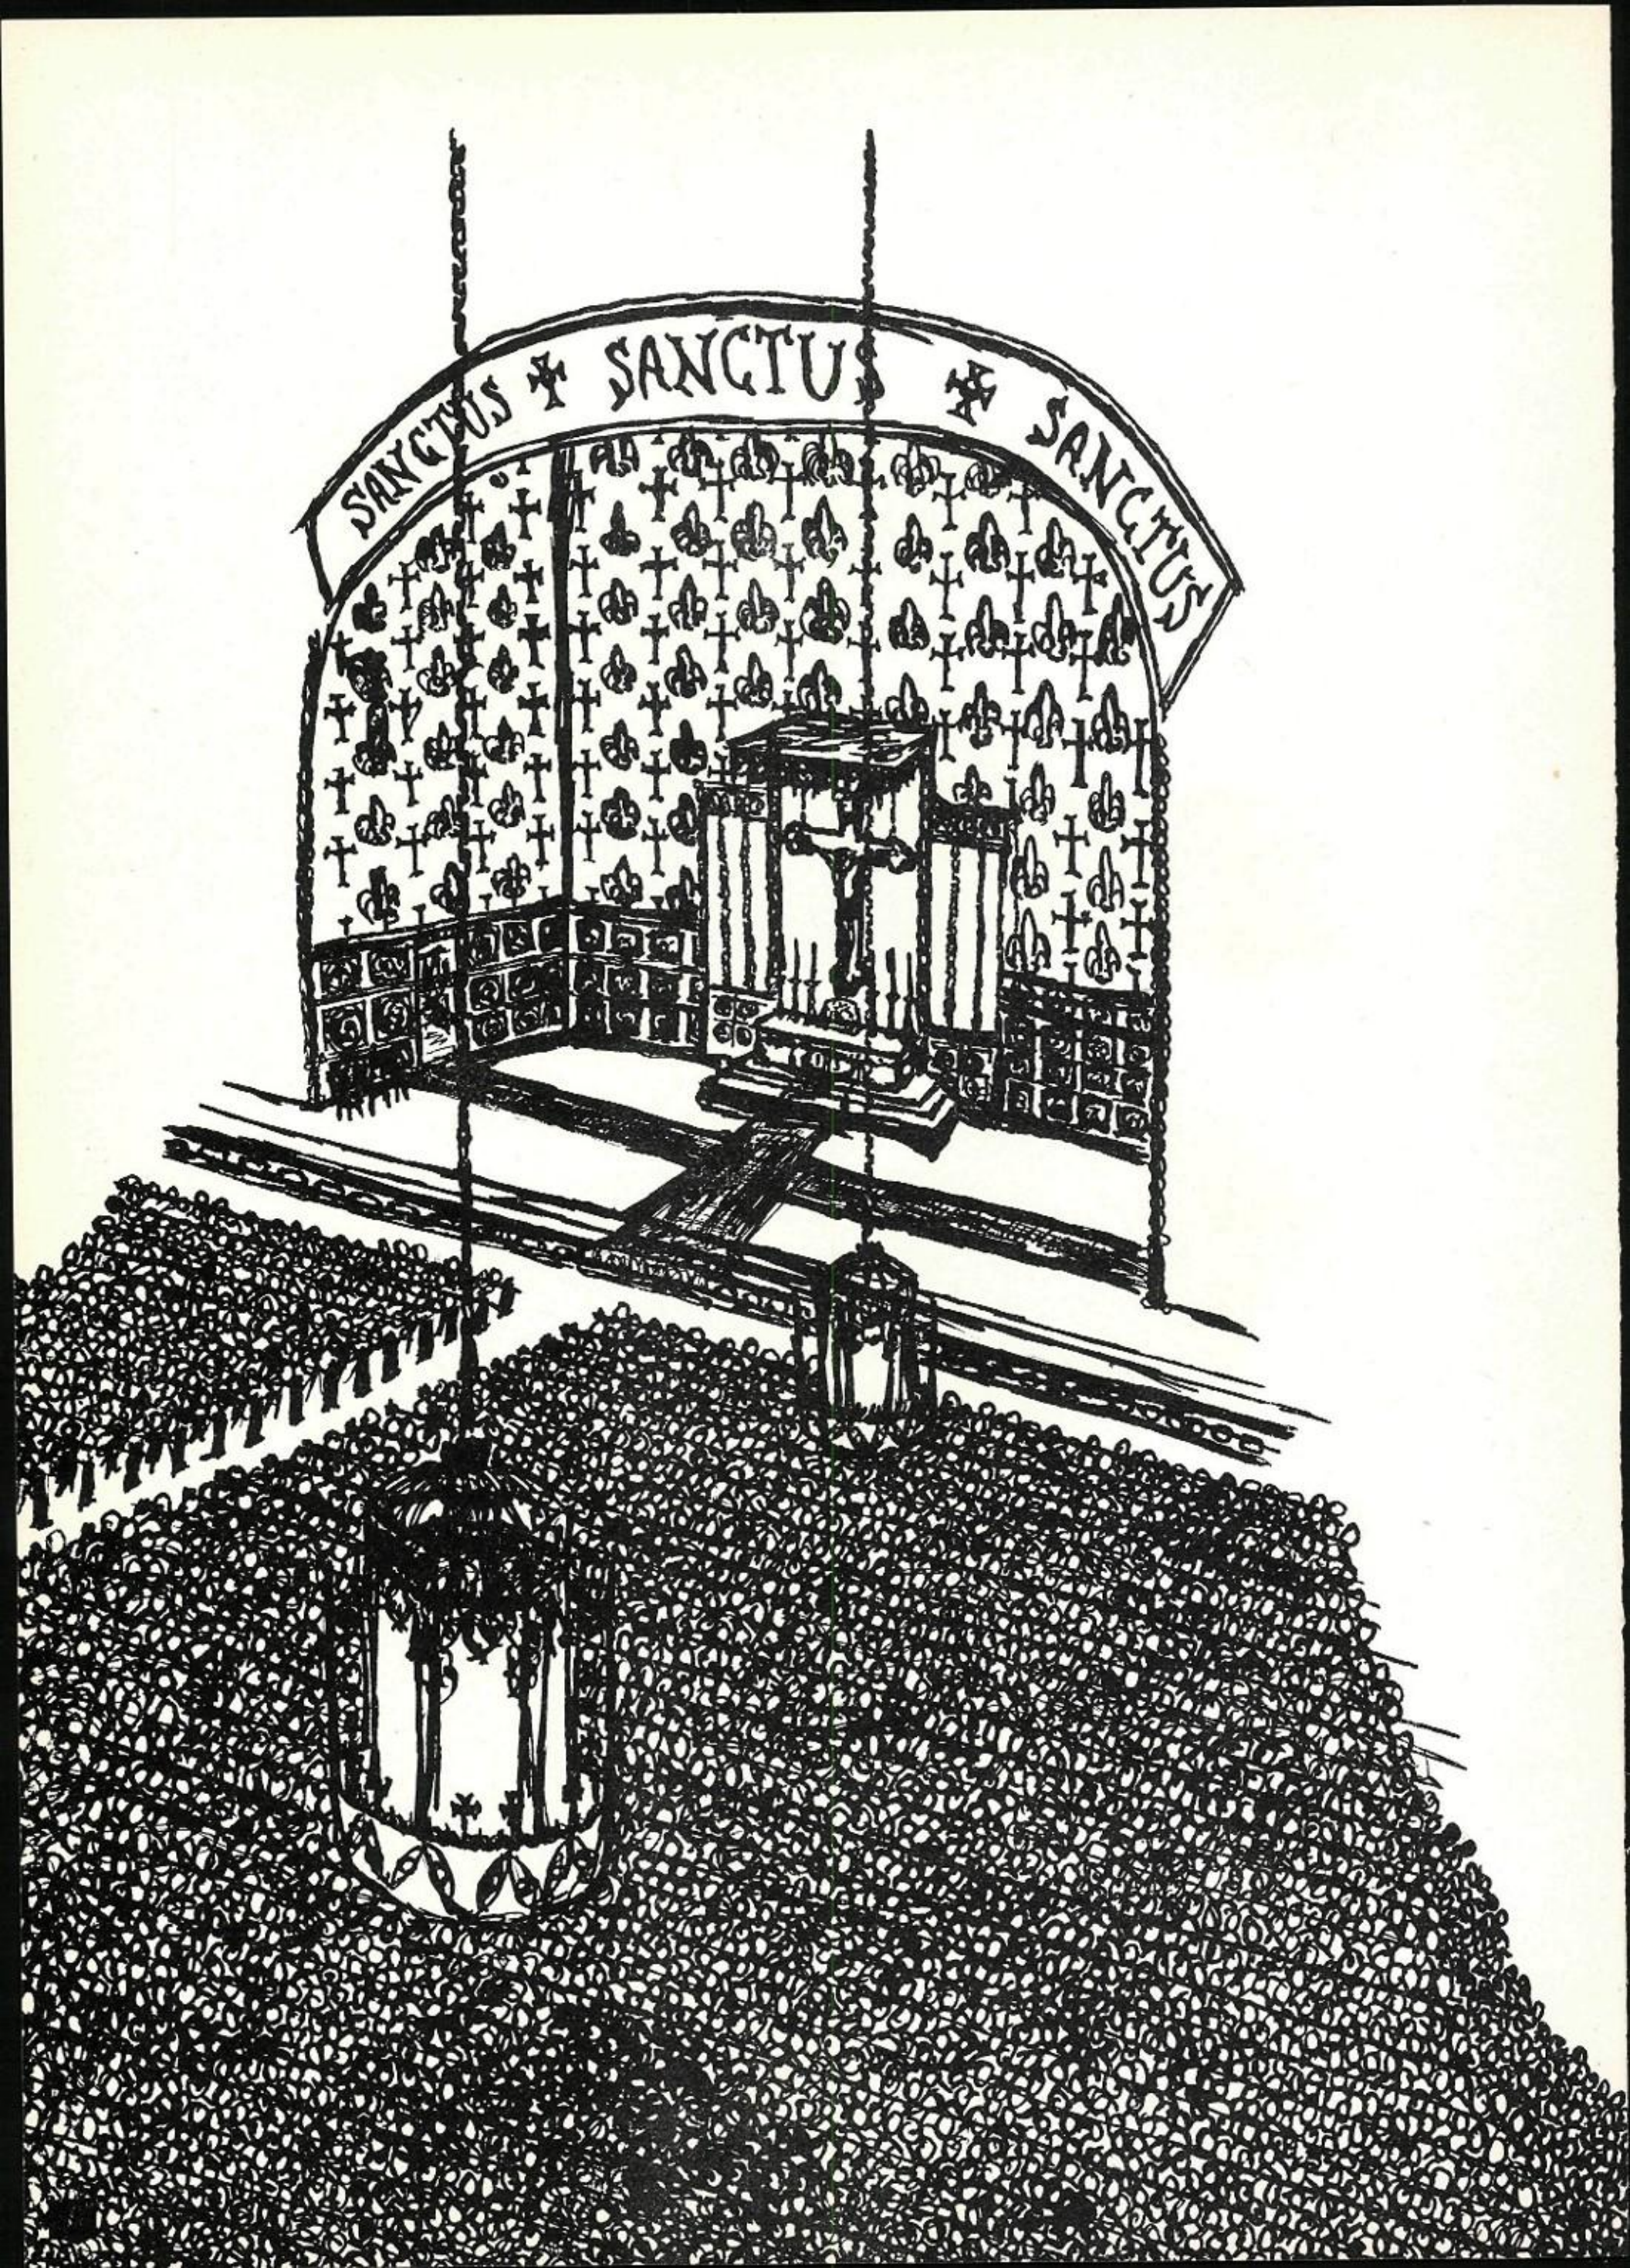
Jesuit High School is proud of the Class of 1959. Your record in this school has been outstanding.

On the occasion of your graduation we take the opportunity to express public thanks to the Class of 1959 for the good spirit you have shown through your high school years as well as for the notable contribution you have made towards the prestige of Jesuit High School.

In bidding farewell to this distinguished Senior Class we do so with genuine esteem for you and with hopeful prayers that in your future life you will measure up to the high standards you have already exhibited in conduct, studies, and cooperation.

The Faculty and Staff of Jesuit High School join with me in the prayer that God may bestow upon each and every one of you a full measure of success and happiness in whatever be your chosen walk of life so that living as cultured Catholic American gentlemen in accord with the Divine Will of God you may at the end have the happiness of life eternal.

Thomas J. Shields S.J.



SANCTUS SANCTUS SANCTUS

What is so great about a Jesuit Education?

At a time when there is a give-us-more-scientists scare in the country; when the cry seems to be: teach-the-kids-more-math-to-beat-the-Commies; and when the sneer is thrown up: look-at-what-we're-turning-out-a-bunch-of-duck-tailed-hoodlums; it is nice to note that in quiet Jesuit High Schools across the country there is no scare, no cry, no sneer. For these Jeb houses have been giving us scientists, teaching more math, and turning out men since long before the recent realization of how much these were needed occurred.

Because for four hundred years the Jesuits have been following a system of education drawn up by a Spaniard named Loyola; a system of educating fully; a system of teaching not only the arts and sciences, but faith, hope, and charity too; a system of building not only healthy bodies, but strong characters and souls as well; a system which works.

And every one of us at Jesuit High School can bless every red brick in the place that what we are getting is the best, because in some small way, something of what the saint intended to produce when he started the whole thing has been produced in each of us, whether it is the will to lunge for extra yardage on the football field or the impulse to give your seat to a woman on a bus.

What is so great about a Jesuit education?
The people it produces.

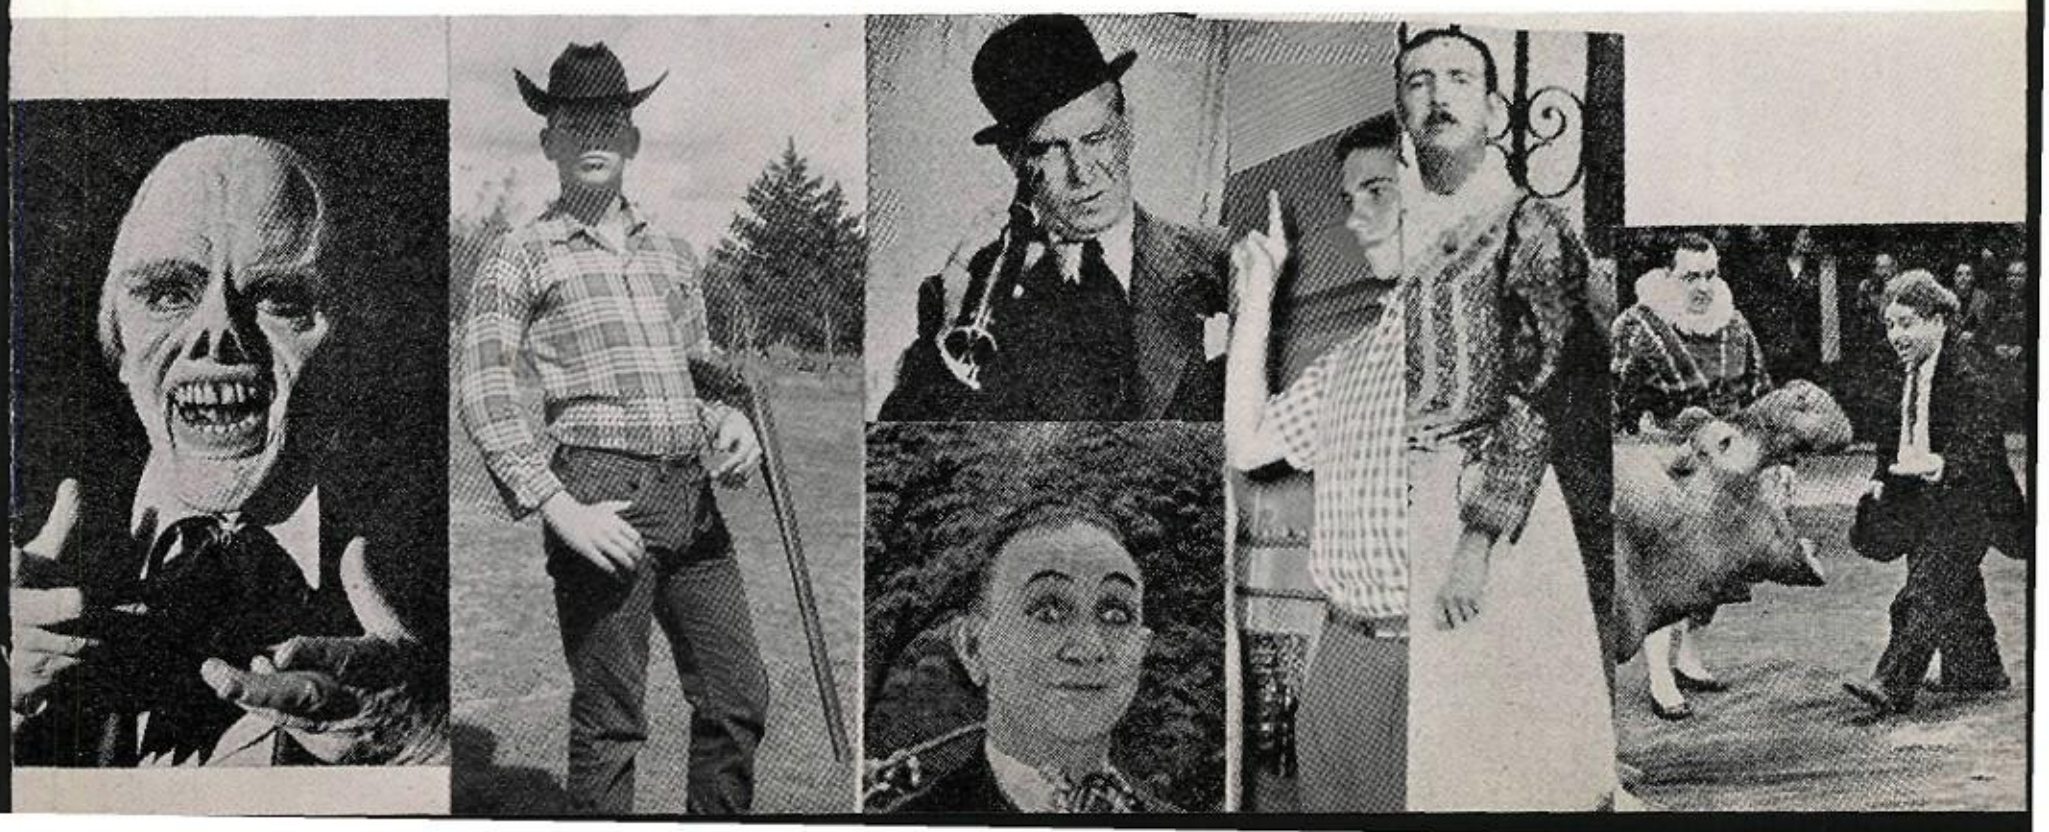
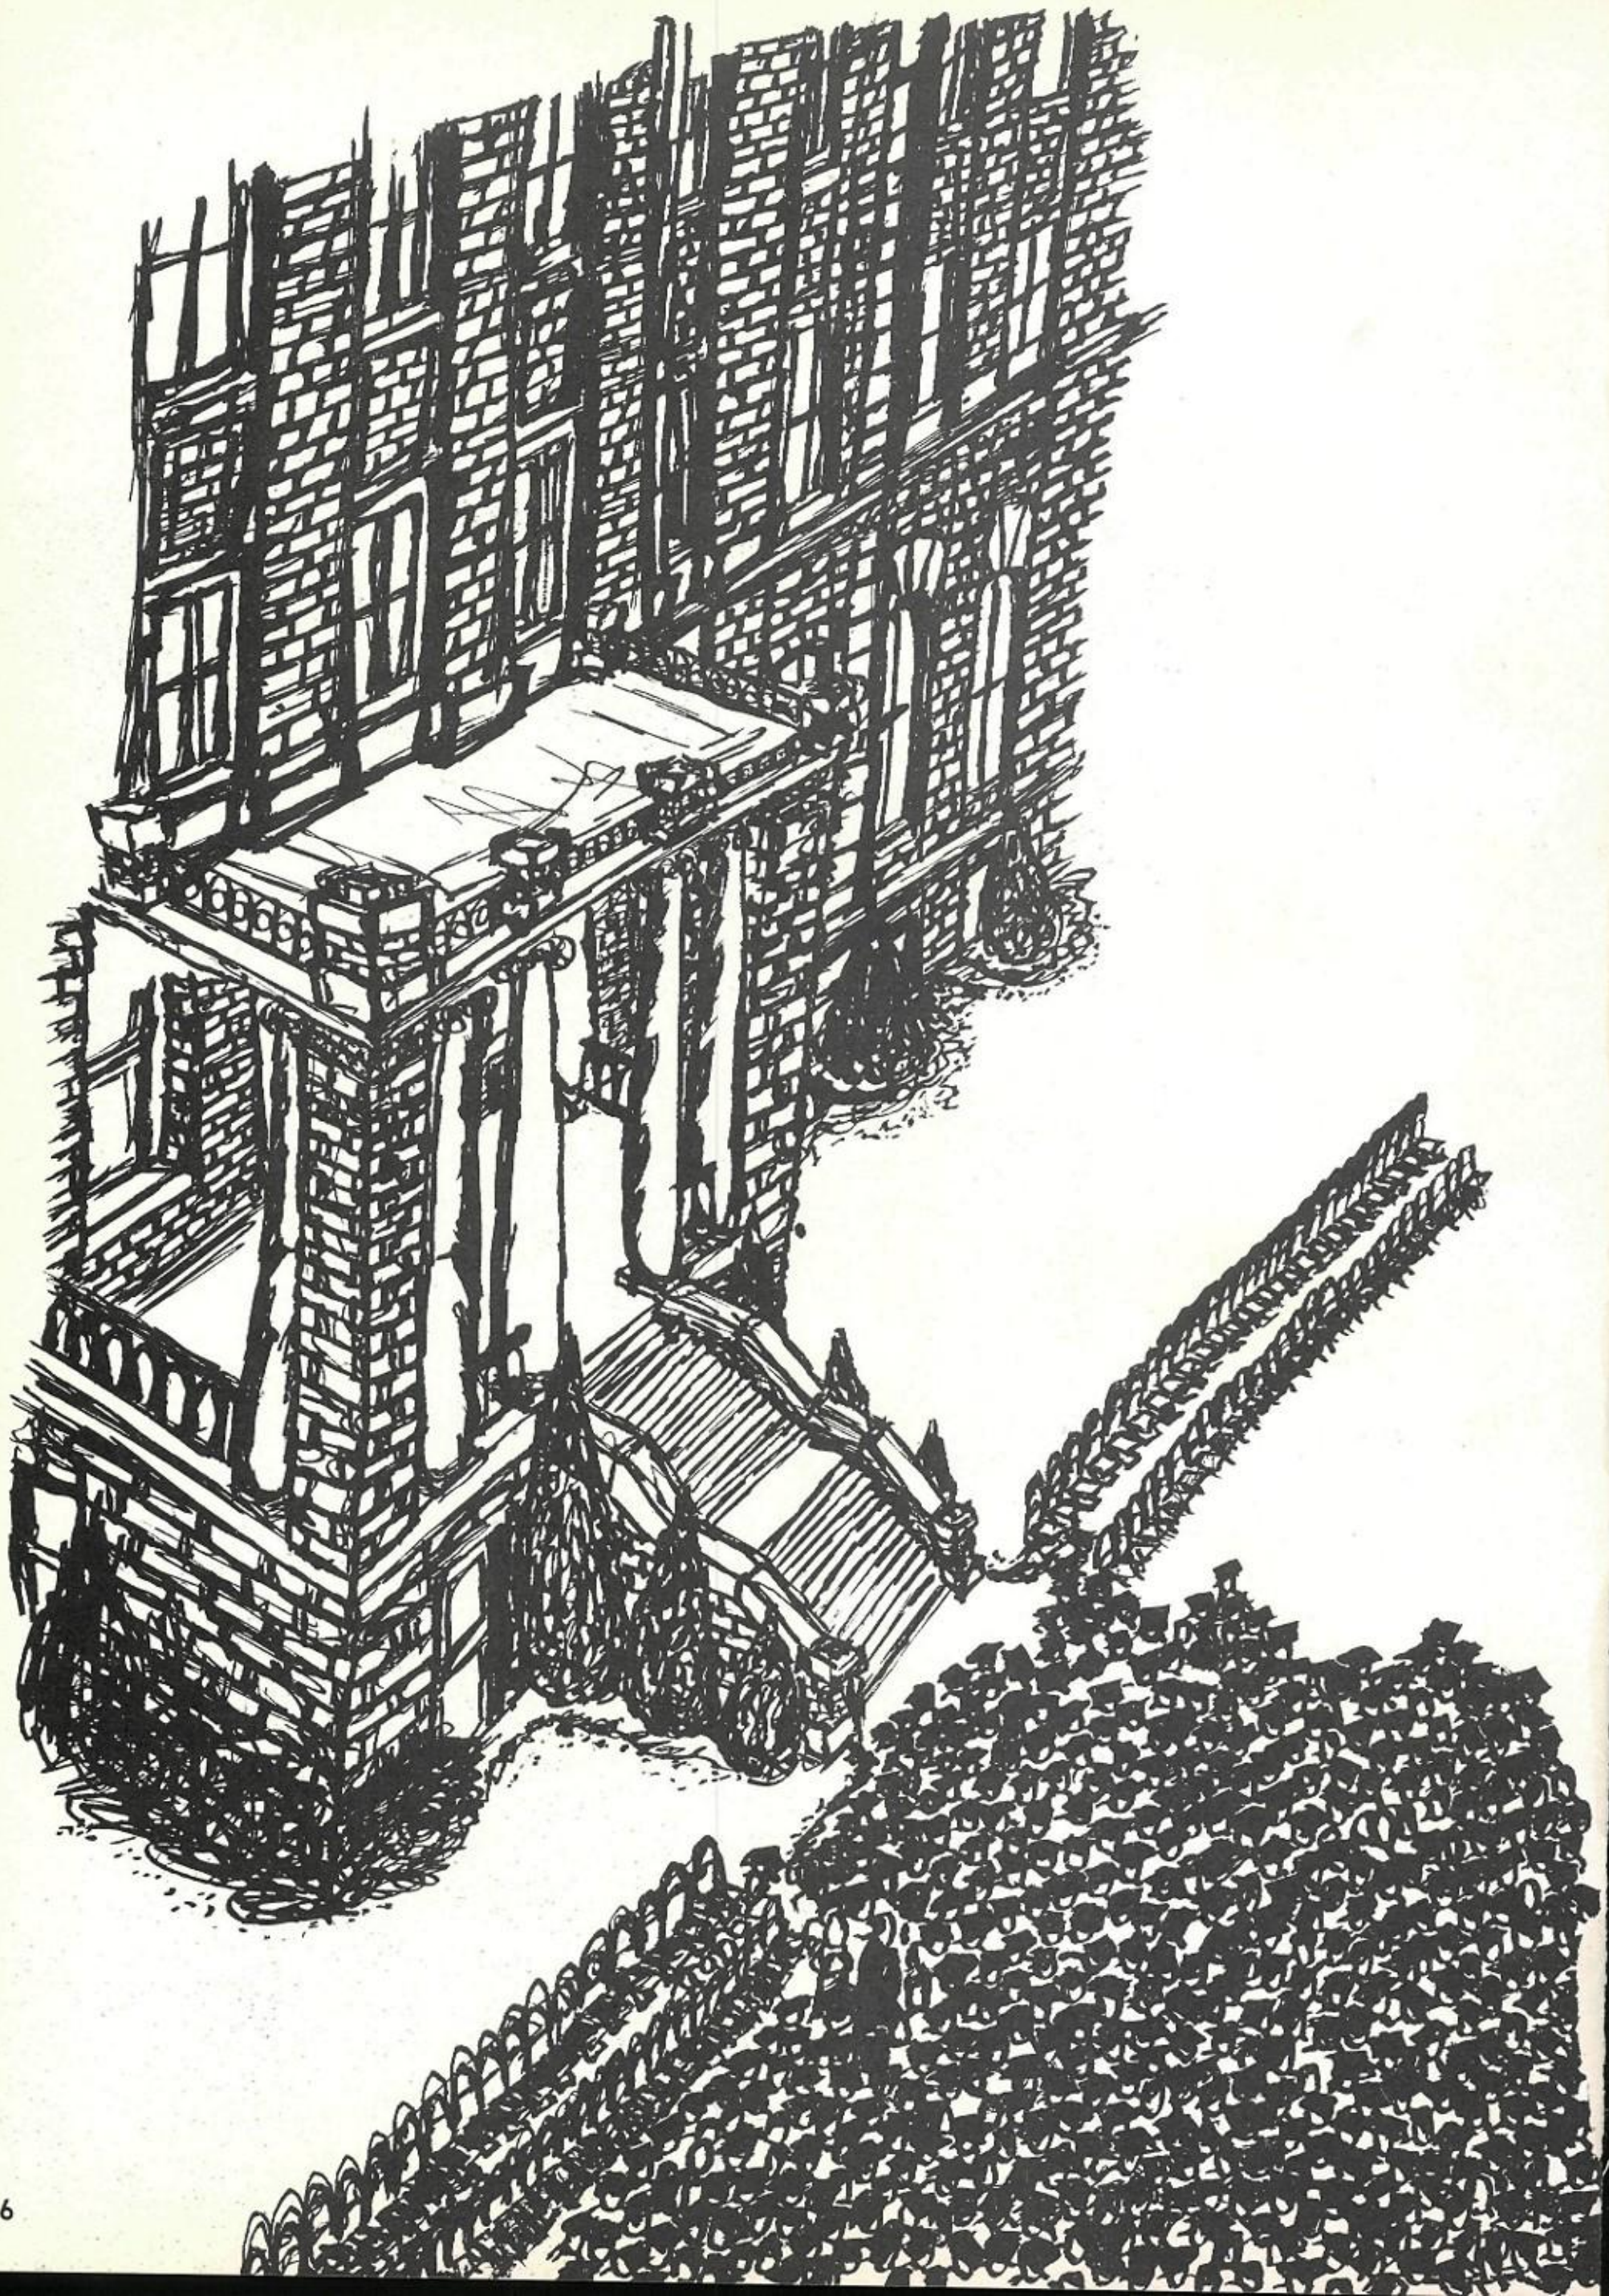
JESUIT SPENDS THREE MONTHS SLEEPING OFF WINTER . . .
SPEND THEIR SUMMER IN MANY DIFFERENT WAYS.





SENIOR CLASS PRESIDENTS (left to right): 102—Don Woods; 103—Harry Newkirk; 101—Paul Moser; 202—Dave Gibbons.

Spirit of '59

It's all over now but the poster-waving. The seniors of '59 have closed their lockers, have had their Jesuit-High-School-Library cards permanently suspended, are gone. It's all over now but a bit of academic, athletic, philothespic, debate, newspaper, and band "boy-were-we-good" poster-waving.

But before this back-slapping gets too loud, and the arm-pumping too lively, there's a question that ought to be asked. "Just how good were we?"

And that's where we stop.

Unfortunately its foolish to compare ourselves with future seniors, impossible to compare ourselves with present seniors (sadly Jesuit cannot graduate more than one senior class at a time), and not exactly fair to compare ourselves with past seniors (those men not being around to defend themselves.)

Our "goodness" then, won't find comparison there.

However, there is someone we can compare ourselves with—ourselves. Ourselves of last year and of the year before. Ourselves when the cry was: "The best is yet come!" Well . . . did it come? The best, we mean. Did we live up to our own estimation? "Just how good were we?"

THE PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

JESUIT HIGH SCHOOL
3812 Oak Lawn Avenue
DALLAS 19, TEXAS

OFFICE OF THE PRINCIPAL

To the Class of '59:

When one writes these messages every year, he runs the risk of writing platitudes, even though his feeling is sincere and his esteem for the class is genuine. I must ask you, therefore, to believe that what is said here is thoroughly meant, and not to think of it as a mere matter of form.

You leave Jesuit High School considerably richer than when you found her. You belong to the period of consolidation rather than to the period of foundation. You did not found the Student Council or many of the other organizations; they already existed. Your exploits, therefore, are not easy to record; but they are real and they have deeply altered your school.

Let me mention two areas in particular in which Jesuit High School has the deepest reasons for being grateful to you. The first is scholarship. It is no accident that your class is the founder of the philosophy seminar. More than any other class I have ever known, you have given all of us, faculty and underclassmen, an example of purposeful, effective enthusiasm for scholarship. Because of you, Jesuit High School is more of a school; you have enriched her in essentials. You demanded and made good use of the best she could give.

Secondly, you made this year remarkable for the direct service of Christ. In all truth, you have stirred the faculty by your overt Christ-centeredness, by your open profession of His principles in your decisions and your goals. We are very proud of you.

Sincerely yours in Christ,

Michael P. Kammer, S.J.

Spirit of '60

Everywhere praise is given and backs are slapped and heads are patted and awards are given out. They've done it every year and they're doing it again this year. It generally happens at assemblies. First they tell the seniors how great they have been, how much better than any other senior class, and then they do something else. They turn to us and we know even before they say anything that we have got quite a job ahead of us—quite a responsibility—for if the senior class was good, then we have to be better. And it's going to be hard because the senior class this year was very good. It means not only that we have to win awards and achieve honors as the seniors have done this year and as we have done in the past but also something else, something much more important: we must be leaders, leaders who will lead the rest of the student body on to higher and even higher goals of spirit, who will make 1960 as successful a year as 1959 has been.

It won't be easy, but it will be done as it has always been done in the past. For we are juniors, a hundred and twenty strong, doing our best.

SPIRIT OF SIXTY-ONE

Second year, sophomore year, year of achievement. Outstanding in extracurriculars, energetic in class activities and organizations, the sophomore class has proved itself:

athletic—vigorous supporters of sports and contests, six Varsity members and fifteen B-team players;

responsive—an active participator in all school events:

faithful—always on hand when needed most and always present to cheer any organization on to success;

persevering—always ready to give that little extra bit of work needed to produce a winning team;

reliable—able to take responsibility in that whatever has been entrusted to them will be completed to its best;

prosperous—continually advancing and meeting new goals;

notable—distinguished in the fields of scholastic achievement;

persistent—it never gives up—it knows no word as defeat;

successful—achievement recognized in Elocution and various other contests—winners of Magazine Drive, prominent in Mission Drive;

distinctive—a separate part of a whole closely-knitted school—a part which thinks for itself yet works for the betterment of Jesuit High.

Spirit of '62

It was during a speech class in March:

"We think of a vocation as something for later in life. But there is one person in this room who won't be here in later life. There is one person in this room who will be dead before his senior year. It's an average. In a group as large as our whole freshman body, it's an average that at least one of us will die before his senior year.

And then, what would be his vocation? His vocation would have been just being what he was—a student. We should think about that. We should be a good student—that might be our life-time vocation—that might be what God had destined us to be."

It does not matter who said the above or what classroom he was in—what does matter is that someone did say it, some freshman did say it. It is important that a first-year man, a Jesuit-beginner, thought about the last-year, the end. It is important because a ninth-grader said in effect: "Live life like you mean every minute of it." And he meant it.

It has been said that extracurricular activities are "extra" only in the sense that they are outgrowths of the curriculum. This is why extracurriculars are thought of as being extensions of the school day. And this is true whether the organization is a hobby, service, speech, sport, or spiritual group.

The extracurricular achievements at Jesuit High School show what can be accomplished when teenagers, with special guidance, are allowed to express themselves and exploit their talents.

This, then, is the one factor that distinguishes Jesuit students as a whole from thousands of high school students throughout the nation. Their interest in extracurricular activities can be readily seen by paging through the Senior Section of this year's, or any year's annual.

Stay around this red school house and you will soon see that, for the most part, those teenagers with initiative, drive, and ability are the ones that are active in extracurricular activities.

The presidents, leaders, head-men of tomorrow won't just be, they will have been. The seeds of leadership for tomorrow will have been planted in the rows of extracurriculars of today.

ORGANIZATIONS

STUDENT COUNCIL

Under the square-jawed leadership of its president, John Brough, this year's Student Council, Jesuit's "government-of-the-people," piled up the longest list of practical action in its three-year history. Working to insure school spirit and school pride in future Jesuit generations, the Student Council pulled a tight rein on the first written freshman regulations and made into laws: beanies and pajamas for frosh at the Homecoming pep rally. It then tackled the previous-year-sagging-support-of-basketball problem and was indirectly responsible for the loudest, most spirited cheering section in Dallas, whose yells helped bring home the T.C.I.L. championship. It ran cheerleader elections, get-acquainted dances, proms, and masterminded the midday Mass during Lent. It had a busy year.

And with its numbers, the Sodality's influence has grown until it is felt all over the school from the spirit in the Thanksgiving Drive to the reverently-said "Hail Marys" in the huddle on the football field.

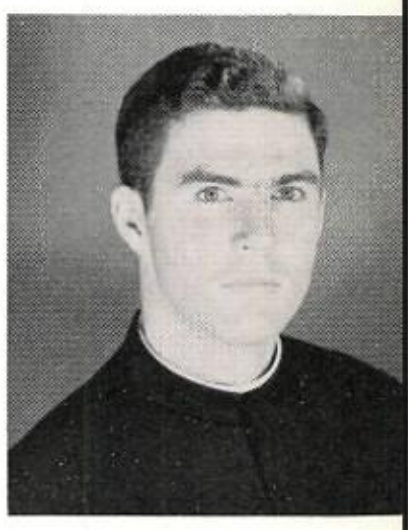
PHILOTHESPIC SOCIETY

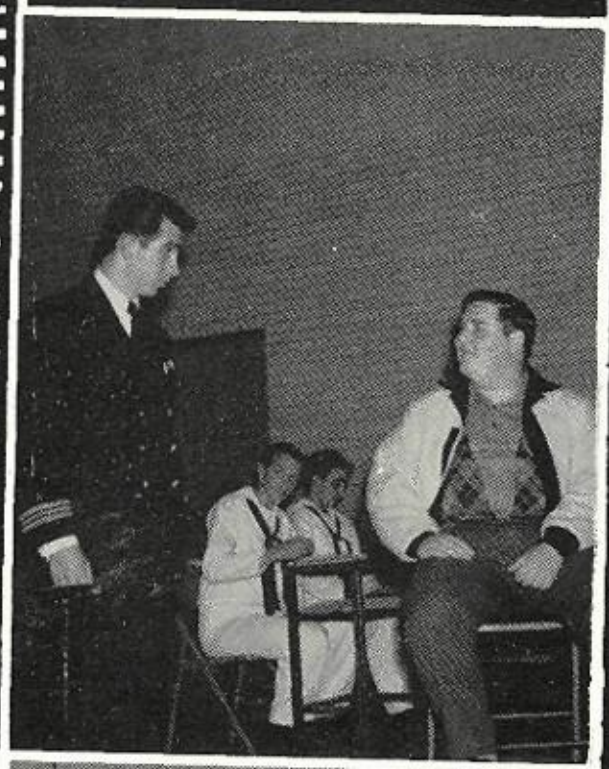


MR. P. E. HANLEY, S.J.

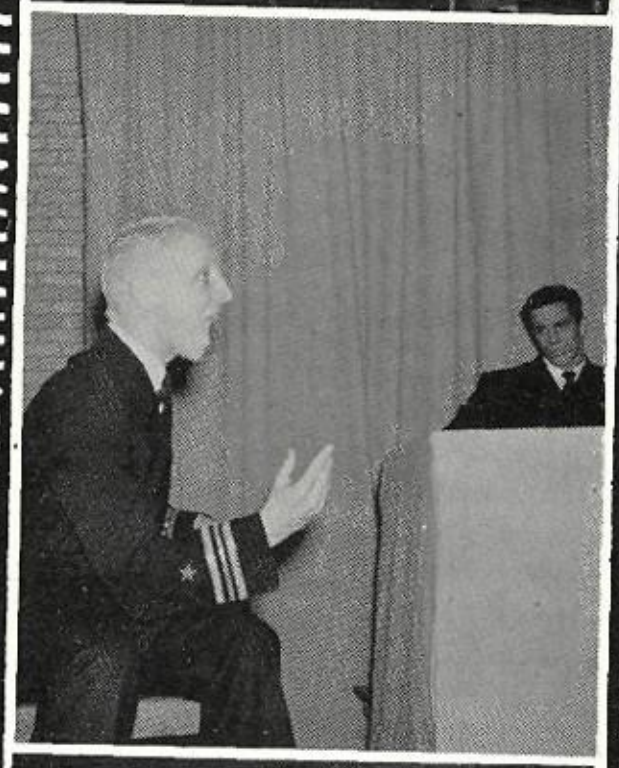
It was a big year for everybody—the teachers got a morning break, several students won National Merit awards, and the school was repaired and improved—but for the Philothespic Society, it was the best year of all. Its members entered six tournaments, won four first place medals, eight seconds, and six third place awards. Its membership increased from fifty-four at the first of the year, to seventy-five at the end. Two major plays, The Caine Mutiny Court-Martial and The Merchant of Venice, and a one-act play, Here Under the Sun, were staged in a manner rivaling any professional troupe. Yes, the Phil's moderators, Messrs. Hanley, S.J., and Cousins, S.J., have a good reason for feeling proud of the Society's work this year.

THE CAINE MUTINY COURT-MARTIAL

Caine's cast wait for entrances backstage.



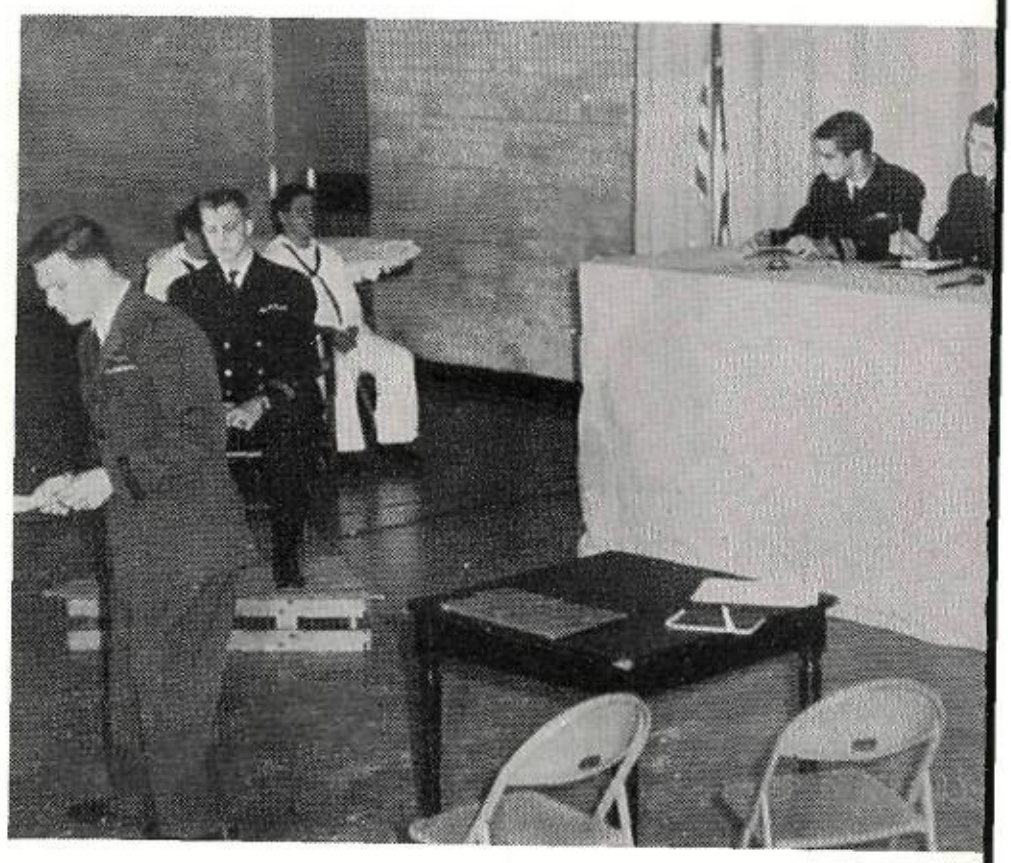
"Who, sir? Me, sir? No, sir." Seaman Urban confuses the Defense.



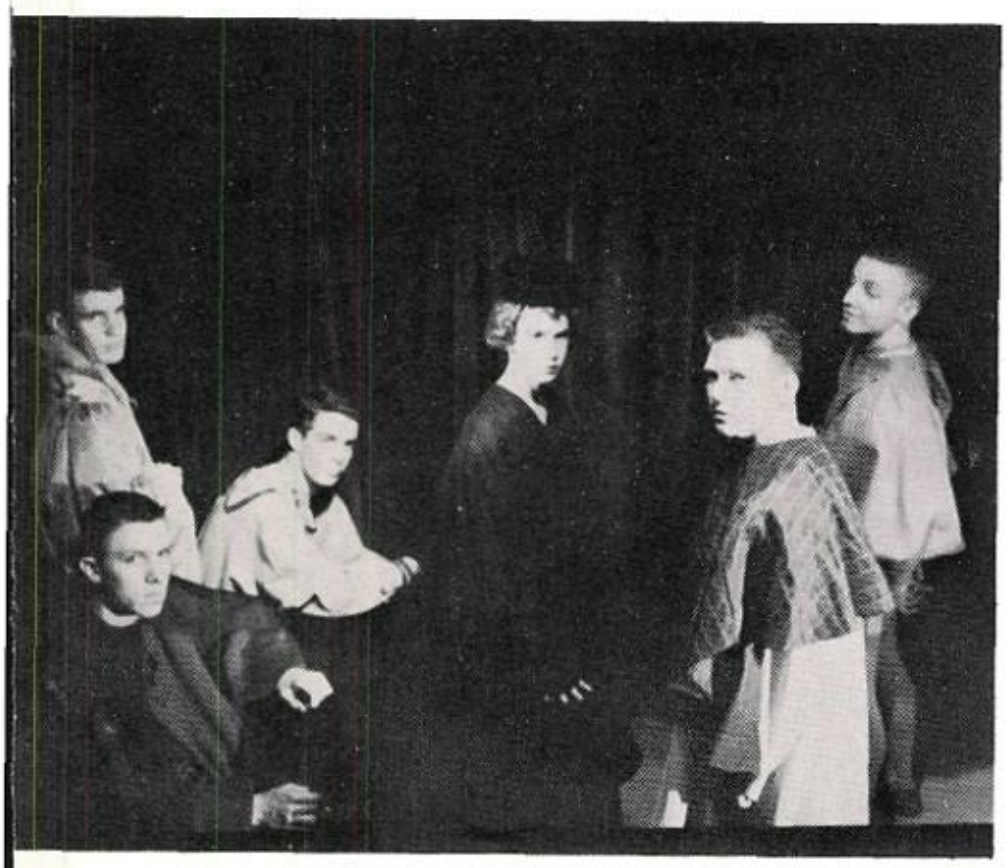
"By God, I made it stick!" Queeg cracks up.

". . . to you, Mr. Keefer." Greenwald closes the play.

Working in-the-round with only the barest props (tables, chairs, a curtain, uniforms), the Phil packed a "Standing-Room-Only" final-night audience into Christ The King auditorium for its modern production of the year: "The Caine Mutiny Court-Martial." Brittle, hard-hitting, realistic drama that sparked in personality clashes won unbiased praise from everyone who saw it as the best Philothespic play in years. "It was so real, I forgot it was a play."



Lt. Maryk admits his mutiny.



"And the sentence?" Lorenzo, Antonio, Salanio, Portia (disguised), Shylock, and Gratiano turn to the Justice of Venice for his pound-of-flesh pronouncement.

Plots leading into sub-plots which folded into sub-sub-plots, and slipped into sub-sub-sub-plots were the themes of the Phil's Shakespearean comedy: "The Merchant of Venice." Filling a huge cast with talented, veteran thespians, using a new-idea-filled set, and employing professional stage direction methods, the Philothespic put on an exciting and eye-filling show at the University of Dallas auditorium.

"Laugh, let fly your troubles!" Salarino grabs a smile from worried Antonio.

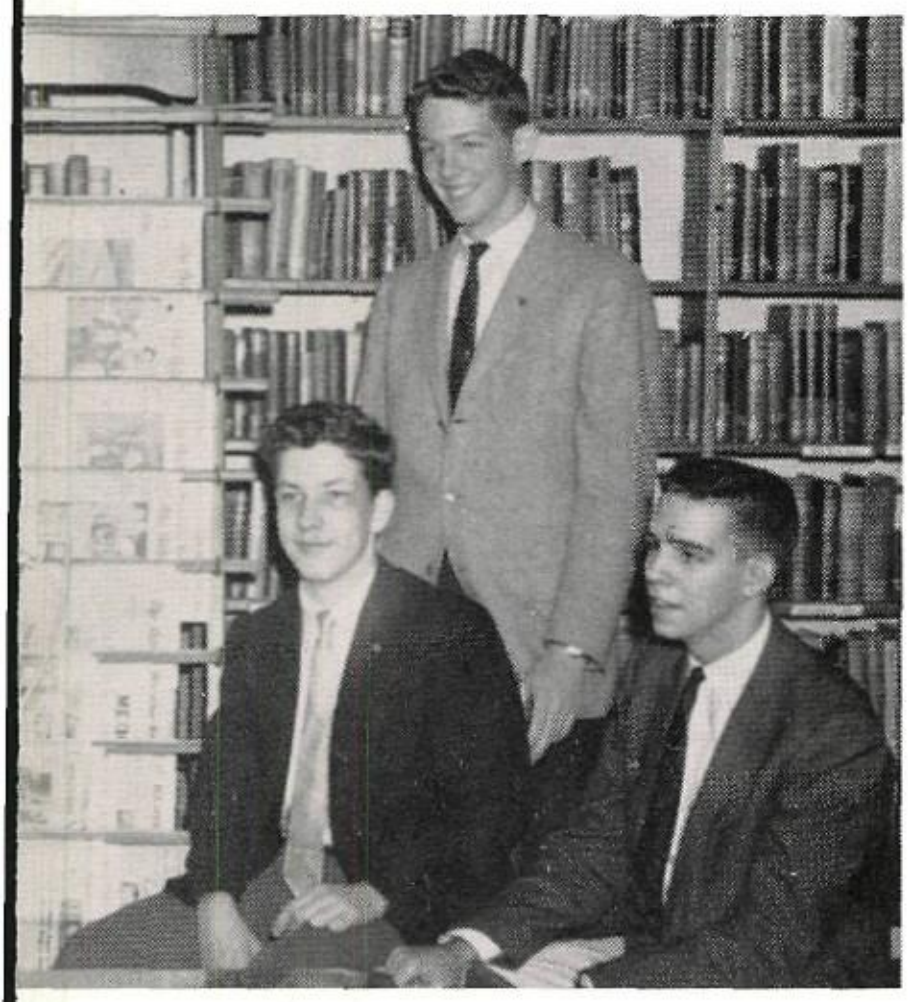
DEBATE SOCIETY



Medal Debate Cup. Chairman Coursey admires table-top shine.

From debate tournaments to panel discussions, from entertaining Dads' clubs to entertaining Mothers' clubs, the Jesuit Debaters have time and again distinguished themselves for their exceptional quality and well-trained smoothness. This is graphically portrayed by the number of firsts and seconds brought home from the speech tourneys. The debaters attended six speech tournaments this year, winning first place in debate at Dallas University, a second place at Hillcrest, another at Denton, and placing two teams in the first position at the Sophomore Speech Tournament. Their polished style also merited a half dozen firsts and as many seconds and thirds in each of the speaking events. It was another good year in the chrome and gold hardware department.

THE ROUNDUP

The Roundup started off with a bang this year by putting out a paper in the first week of school, the earliest in Jesuit's history. This early issue and the continuing issues rolled off the presses twice a month with hot-shot efficiency. Staff meetings became regular rather than sometimes. The "Ranger of the Week" column was introduced to honor a Jesuit student who had done something outstanding in the preceding month before the issue. Eight page editors were chosen to take turns putting out issues of the paper during the year. The Roundup, 1959 edition, took another step toward becoming the best school newspaper in Dallas.

LAST ROUNDUP

It's not wise to praise a yearbook within that same yearbook. Praise or criticism will come through the book itself. But at least we can say what the Last Roundup's staff hopes its product will be. We want this book to be different. We want it to have humor and spark. We want it to give Jesuit students a good picture of themselves.

To attain this goal calls for new ideas in writing and layout, for unique photography and art. It calls for hard work from summer to late spring for a genius-editor like Carson.

These things have been attained, and we hope that they will make this a delightfully different Last Roundup.

"This was the best year yet," were the words used by Mr. Burns to describe his Bowling League. This year's league had more teams (sixteen), a longer season (eighteen weeks), and more winners than any of its predecessors. By the end of the season, eighty of the Ranger Bowlers had been sanctioned by the American Junior Bowling Congress and two of them, Bob Blake and Gene Haufler, had gained national recognition. Bob placed high in the National Christmas Tourney and Gene's high game of 233 made the League's magazine. This was one bowling season that really rolled.

Looks like a strike, Gene! Gene Haufler and Scott Wilmarth in the foreground. Gene received honorable mention from the National Bowling League (above).

Mr. Burns, Moderator, Eastings, Ganter, Welch, Welch, Goodman, Seeligson, Smith, Scherr, Cree, Martin, Fleming, LaBarba, Lewis, Newkirk, Vice-President; McGuire, President; Zihlman, Program Chairman.

The long arm of Mr. Burns, the Jesuit Police, and the Safety Club are all the same organization. Twenty men make up this group, five from each class, senior, junior, sophomore, and freshman.

The three most important duties they have are patrolling the street crossing on First Friday, enforcing the campus parking regulations, and handling parking at school functions. All these they did most ably, and are in line for a special thanks from the Student Body for a job well done.

Like the Marlboro Man and his tattoo, the Camera Club Man and his Kodak were everywhere this year, covering everything from baptisms to basketball games. Such was the cry that shook about 20 more years into the aging Jesuit gym, and a few more gray whiskers into Mr. Huhn's during B-ball season as the Letterman's Club led the year's most successful drive at school spirit. The J-Club had its liveliest year to date as it kicked off pep-rallies, printed "Fight" ribbons, and ran the Homecoming dance.

Recognizing mathematics as a language, the MuAlphaTHeta (Math) Club has built up a strong vocabulary, including five National Merit Scholarship Finalists, one General Motors Scholarship Finalist, and one student-taught Analytical Geometry class. Under the straight-backed leadership of Mr. Paul Kozsuch, M.A., A.B., M.E., the club cuts all frills and prepares industrious students for top grades in college math.

TEAM CAPTAINS: Basketball: Dave Burt, Football: Paul Moser, Mike Flusche, Bob Cahill. (Missing: Basketball—John Mullen.)

Don't take the football T.C.I.L. championship lightly—Jesuit fought hard for it—but there just is something in North Texas air that grows championship football teams. But focus harder on the Basketball championship. Jesuit came into that tournament as triple underdogs: we were supposed to be beaten for the championship. But that old Olympian, die-fighting spirit in the last three minutes of the game pushed Jesuit to their come-from-behind victory.

The St. Thomas right guard took his long step at the mid-stripe, gathered himself, sprung, and sent a hopeless, wild, over-shooting jump shot hoop-ward. But it was obviously the end. The buzzer killed the useless shot in mid-air, and the Jesuit B-ballers didn't even look at it. They were too busy jumping and hooting and grabbing each other. Alumni, girls, and the Jesuit students that had made the trip to San Antonio flooded the floor of St. Mary's gym. The king was dead, long live the king! Jesuit had beaten defending two-year champs, St. Thomas—55-52.

For three team members it was the top of a long, hard, four-year climb. They sagged noticeably into their tennis shoes. Burt's set, determined mouth relaxed into the broadest of the broad grins he's ever worn. Mullen's intent, frowning crease between his eyebrows vanished into a smoothed, relieved forehead. Burnham's edgy nervousness collapsed into a laugh.

It was over at last.

The sweaty hours of practicing, playing, and thinking basketball during the fall, winter, spring, and summer of four years had paid off in full. All that was left was the glowing satisfaction of Success. You could feel it in their handshake. They had "fought the good fight, run the good race," and won.

The Ranger eleven played one of the toughest schedules ever this year. Their first game was with local powerhouse, Wilmer Hutchins. The Rangers did well by tieing this one. Then after defeats by Classen and Waco the Rangers came back to whip Mesquite and tie Irving. After that, Cascia Hall of Tulsa was their next victim. Then the Rangers dropped three quick ones.

But when it came to the state play-offs there was a different team on the field. Coach Gaudet had his crew ready for action when they came to the semi-final round against Castroville. The Rangers triumphed in the biggest smash of the season, 51-6. Then in the state finals they met up with Kirwin of Galveston. Forty-eight minutes later the Rangers were

As you can tell by the picture B-team football was quite informal this year. We will make no mention of their record because there was none. The main purpose of the B-team this year was to keep the lower varsity players in shape. This, Mr. Ingram, S.J., did very well, for next year these same men will probably make up a large part of the varsity squad.

The Ranger cagers, through the guidance of Coach Jim Walsh and the leadership of co-captains Burt and Mullen, came through this year with one of, if not the best, seasons in the school's history. Up against the tough competition of the local public schools, the '58-'59 Rangers did extremely well.

Right off the bat they took second place in the Plano Tournament. Then they kept on rolling through upset after upset. Late in March the Rangers ambled down Waco way and grabbed a first-place trophy at the 18-team Hubbard Invitational Tournament. With this under their belt they headed for San Antonio and the T.C.I.L. tournament.

In the first round the Rangers mashed St. Pius 58-40. Then in the second round they met with favored Cathedral of El Paso, but they rolled by them 48-39. Then in the finals Jesuit met its arch rival, St. Thomas of Houston, last year's champions. However, in a final minute battle

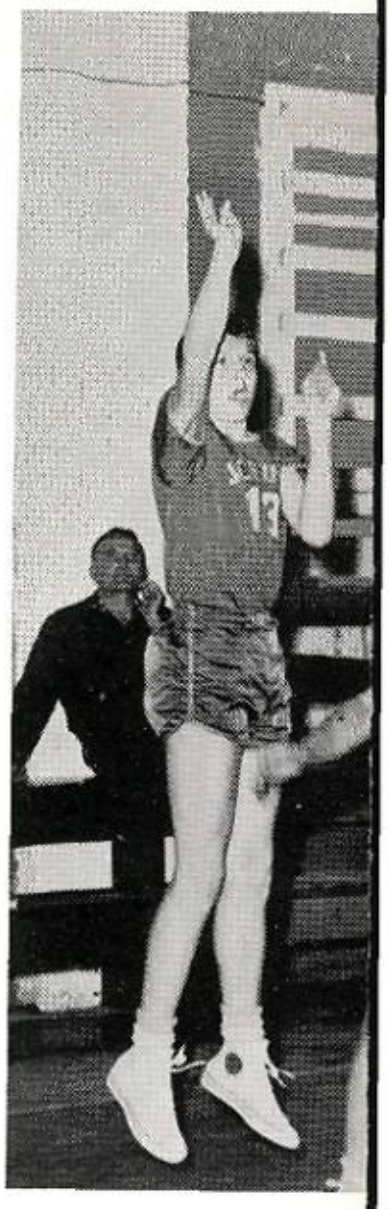
Coach Callan pushed the B-teamers through a good season this year. For the first time in the history of the school the basketball B-team came through with a winning season. Of course the credit belongs to the players themselves, but much of it belongs to Coach Callan, this being his first year as B-team coach. No doubt many of these boys will be holding down varsity slots next year.



B-TEAM CAGERS

Freshman basketball got off to a bad start this year, but as the season progressed they picked up somewhat and started winning a few games. However, just when they started to reach their peak, grades and sickness at in.

Mr. Ingram, S.J., the freshmen's new coach, did however accomplish the freshman team's purpose of training new men for the varsity in future years.

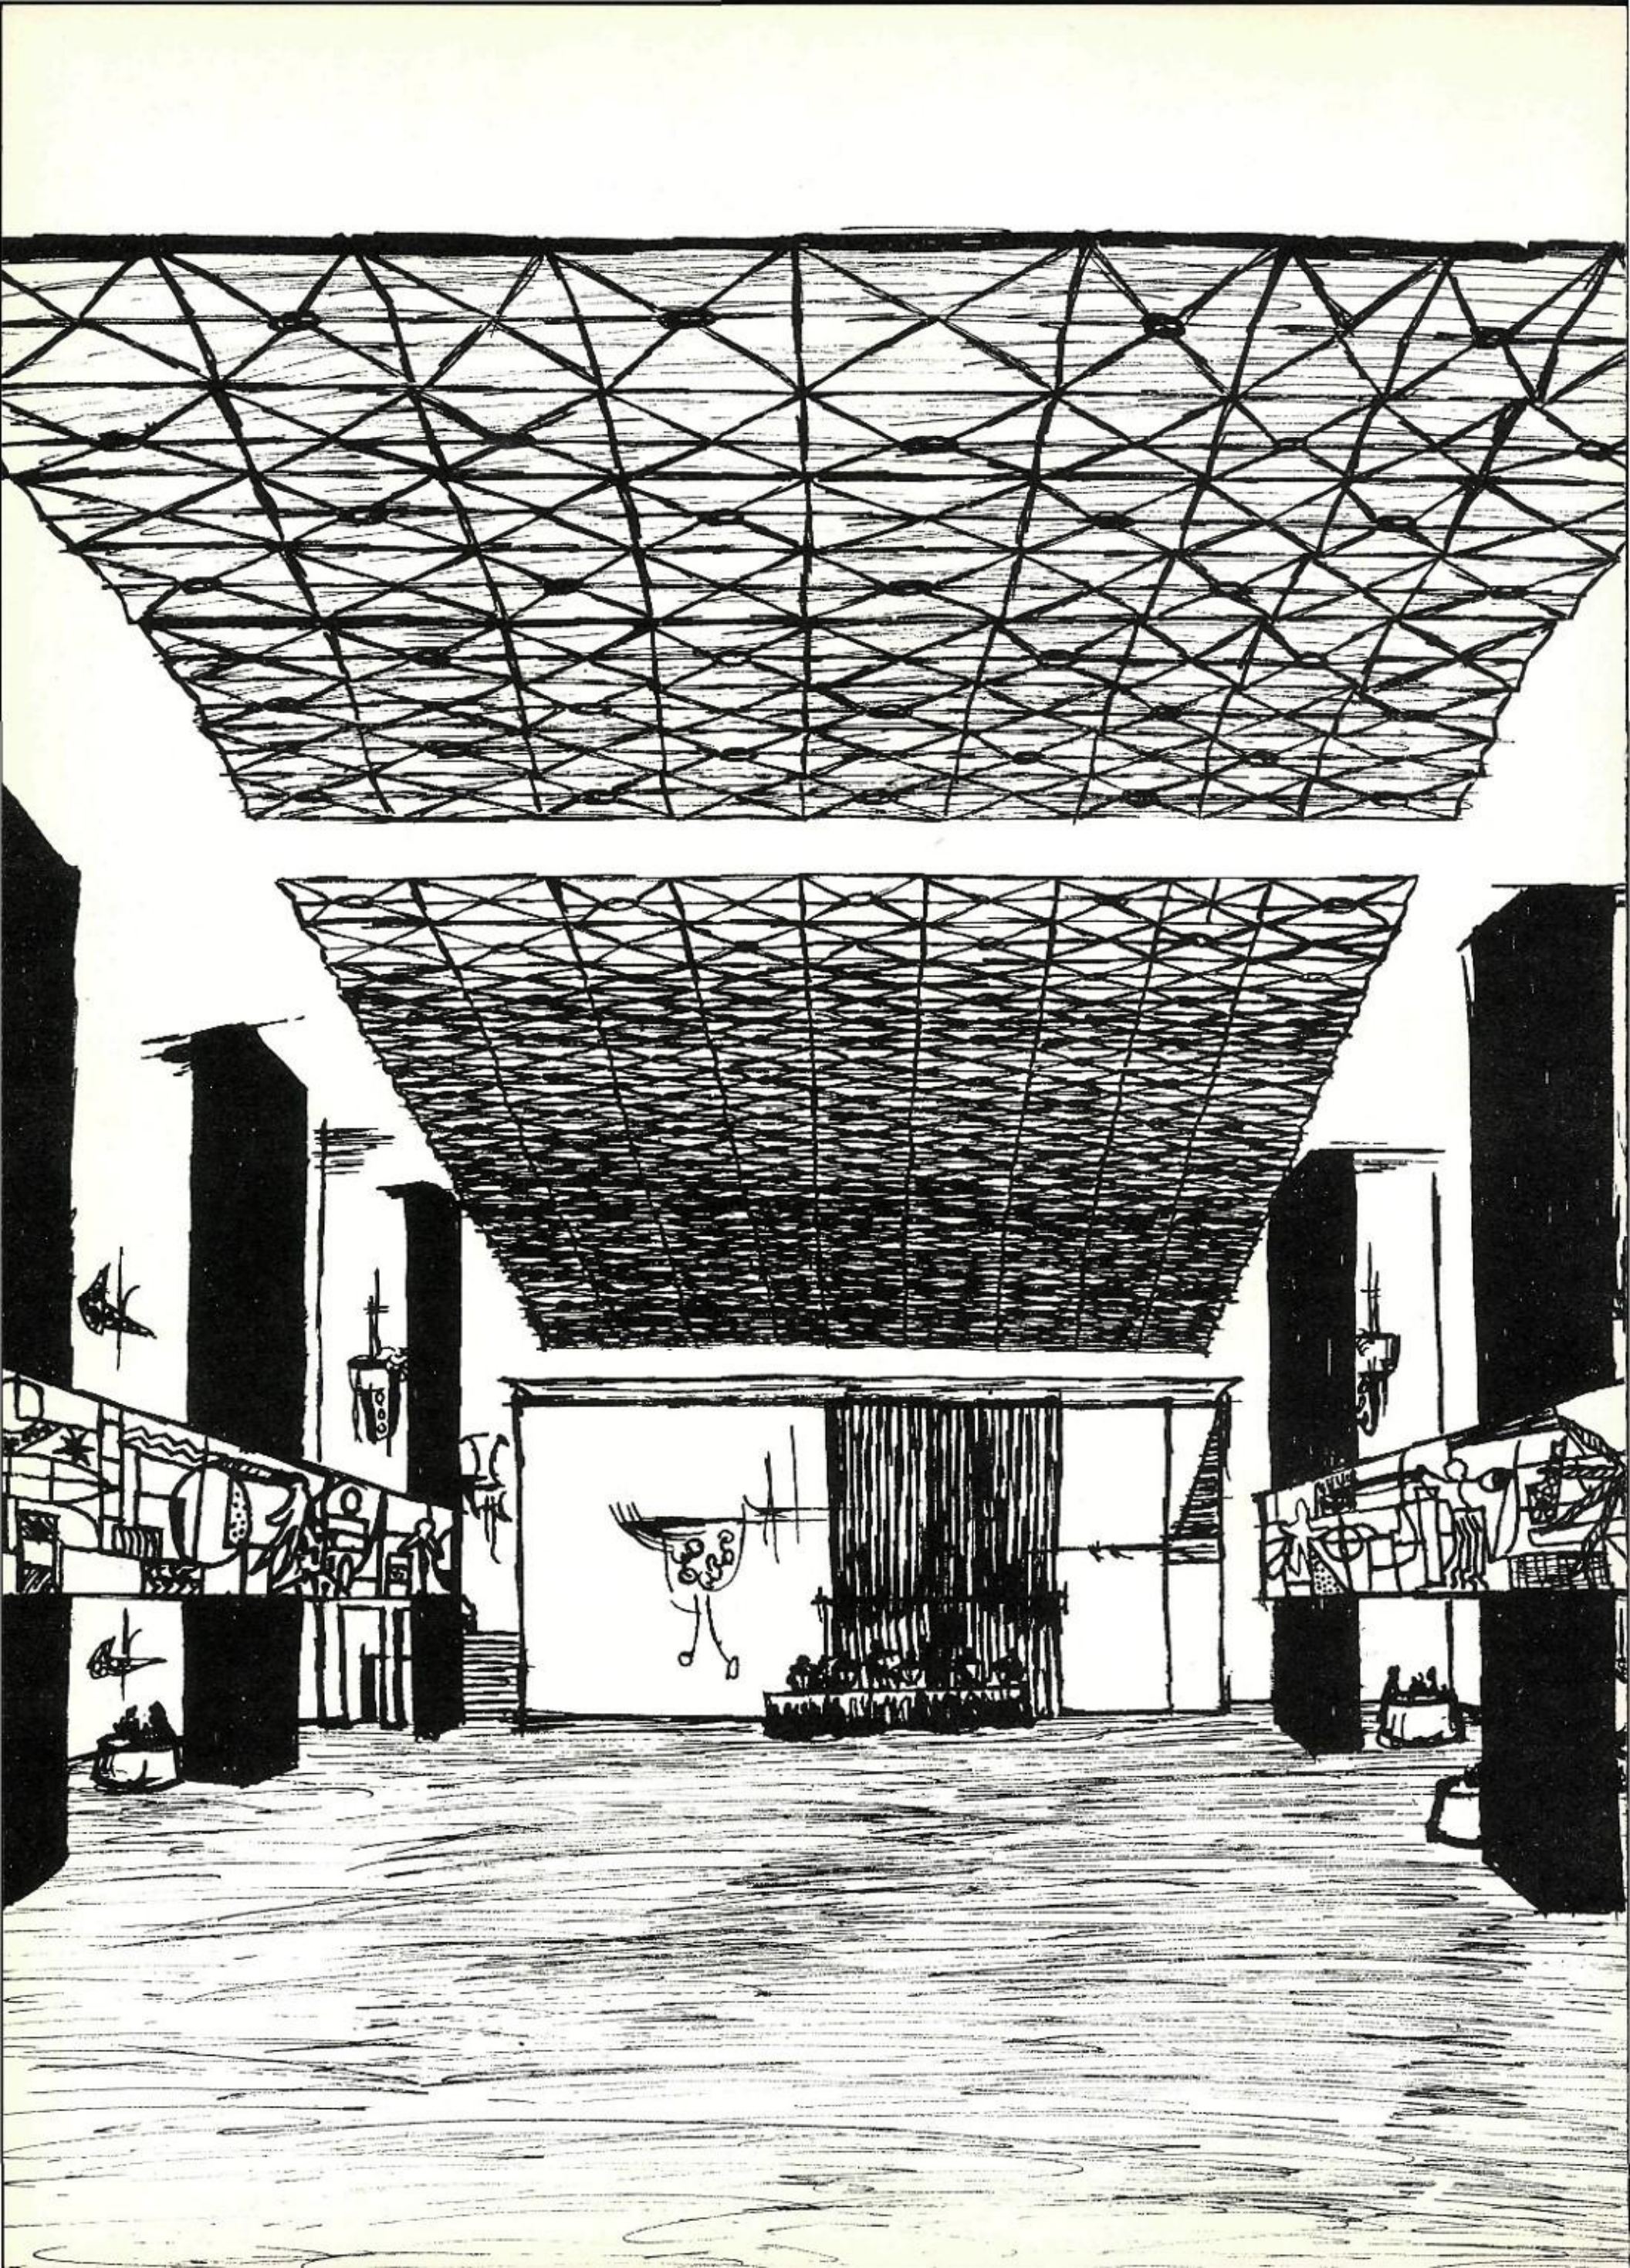
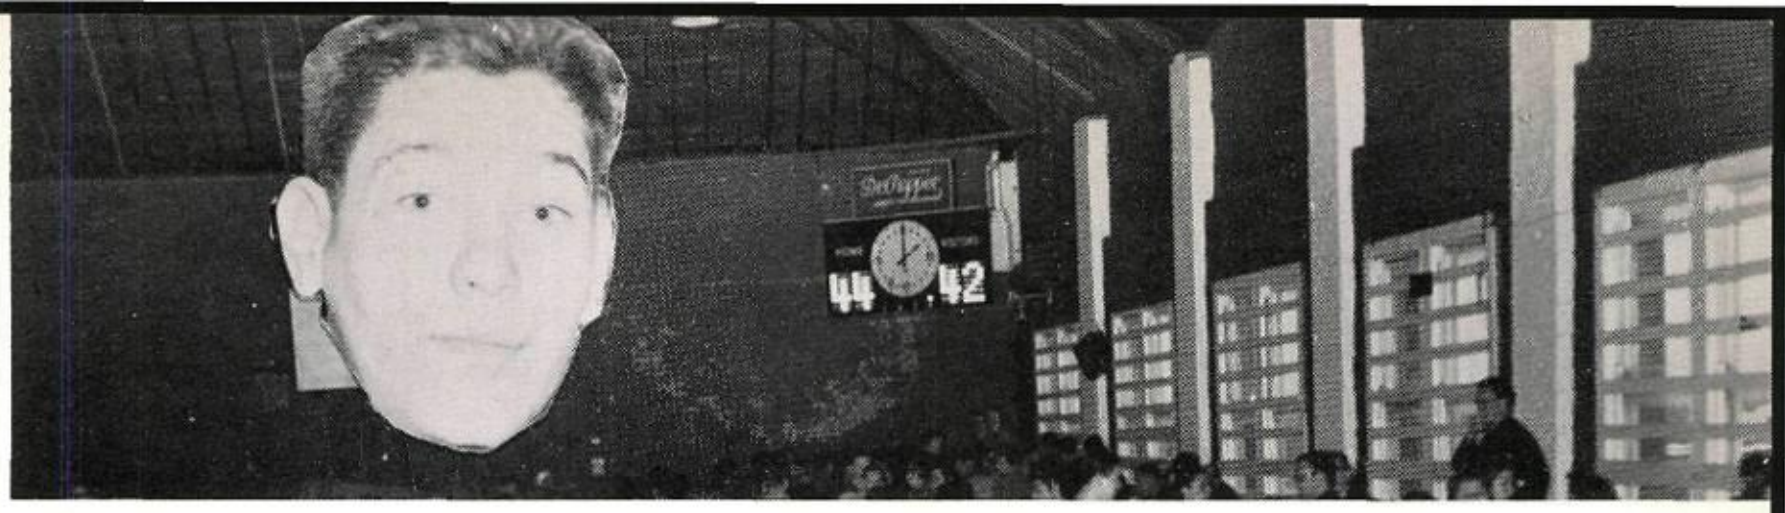
The Jesuit golfers are looking for a great season this year, and it looks like they will get it. Mr. Walsh, their coach, a golfer of Springhill fame, seems to think that these boys have what it takes.

GOLF





What will you remember?

As the robe-draped seniors file out in front of the school to signify the year's official end, it might be good to stop and wonder what will be remembered about Jesuit's 1958-1959 year.

What?

Father Rogge's record-spinning at the get-acquainted dances?

The rambling, work-hard, rough-housing that made up the 4202 senior Foot-in-the-face-Ball tournament?

The loudest all-male cheering section in Dallas that sat in the letterman's bleachers during gym B-Ball games?

The first time in ten years that it ever snowed three times in Dallas during one winter?

What?

There is no definite answer. Everyone remembers different things, but be sure, they all remember something.

And now suddenly, it's all over, and you always will wish you could do it all over again, almost.
